

hi, i dont know how many people are going to even see this but im the person behind the K00L41DZ/grape acc. im grape and i always have been grape. my actual name is kenny.. you may or may not know me.

id like to apologize for how insensitive this account and account theme was. when i was fourteen i had gotten really into true crime, i already had been prior to this, but i got even more into it. i loved anything edgy as well including themes of murder, serial killers, cults and cult leaders, mass shootings, genocide, etc. i have always experienced homicidal thoughts as well as a desire to be a cult leader due to lack of the feeling of self importance and some other shit, and id see this shit and go HAHA mecore. because of this, i used a lot of horrible tragedies as an aesthetic, one of them being the jonestown massacre. i am, and was fully aware of what jim jones did and i knew he was an awful person but at the time i was drawn to horrible people and his whole cult leader thing made me feel attached to him and i ended up full on obsessing over him and using shitty references to him and what happened to vent and cope as well, which ill admit was disrespectful of me to do so.

id like to mention the girl i was dating at the time encouraged this behavior and went along with it and would make flavor aid jokes with me, literally everyone in our main gc picked up on these jokes including a friend of ours who was always the type of person to call bad people out on their bullshit and had left me and my [now ex] girlfriend in the past over us being bad people and didnt seem to take issue pointing out it was bad of me to obsess over terrible people in the past, so i figured since this person wasnt doing anything and was doing it with us, it was fine. not only that but my ex's encouragement and reassurement it was fine only worsened matters to the point within a month id start crushing on a serial killer. i picked up on this shit from her and she only condoned and encouraged me. when i was told by others obsessing and crushing on serial killers and shit was disgusting and i told them to kill themselves, my ex would always condone it and say I was in the right bc I was being harassed for it on top of it and i kept getting worse and worse.

not to mention i actually got over my obsession with jim jones within early may 2021 and even MOCKED people who obsessed over both serial killers and cult leaders, proof of this is below

i was making progress again and anything past that said about jim jones was simply just an edgy joke. however all my progress was later undone towards the end of may.

i have since changed and gotten over any type of obsession with any horrible person including jim jones. i got over that in january 2022 just weeks before i turned fifteen and i have shit talked people who are like that ever since. not to mention my ex hasn't even changed and is still into these types of people. i thankfully moved on and i apologize if i offended anyone.